THE SITUATION

A industrial facility required additional power to operate new equipment. The operations team did not have time to wait for a permanent upgrade and needed a fast solution that could also support long-term use. Flexibility and responsiveness were priorities, which led them to contact Garrett McKenzie.

THE RESPONSE

Working with the facility's operations team, Garrett McKenzie recommended generator sizes and service plans that matched their needs. The first unit delivered was a 56 kW generator, which supported the initial equipment load. As power demand increased months later, the client requested more power, and a second 120 kW generator was delivered to the facility.

THE EXECUTION

The initial request was for a 56kW rental generator, which was delivered and connected to equipment on site. Garrett McKenzie regularly performed maintenance and monitored the equipment performance. When the client requested more power, the same protocols were performed on the 120 kW.

THE RESULT

The 120 kW generator remains on site today. Garrett McKenzie provides preventive maintenance and ongoing monitoring to maintain performance. The facility continues to rely on the rental power and appreciates the flexibility of a scalable power solution to meet their changing needs.
